

Tuesday 12th May

English

They unrolled all the toilet paper.

They squeezed the toothpaste.

They nibbled the soap
and didn't like it.

And they poured Hilda's favourite shampoo
into the basin.

When Hilda came home she went up to the bathroom to wash her hands. She found the most unbelievable mess,
There was toilet paper and water and soapsuds all over the floor.

And her poor shampoo!

Hilda gave a screech. She tore her hair and rolled her eyes.

"Oh," she cried.

"Oh, for a peaceful life without these wicked little monkeys!"

The next day Hilda had to go and see her mother, who was in bed with a bad cold.

"And don't forget you must, must be very good while I'm away!"

It was late in the evening
when Hilda came home.
She looked round the hall.
Everything was neat and tidy.

But where were the three little monkeys?

She looked into the sitting room.
There was her knitting on the chair and the newspaper was in a neat pile: but Tim and Sam and Lulu were nowhere to be seen.

“What can have become of them?” Hilda said to herself.

She went into the kitchen.

Everything was clean and shining and in its proper place:
but there was no sign of the three little monkeys.

"Oh dear," said Hilda. "This is very worrying.
What can have happened to them?"

She went upstairs to the bathroom.

Everything was clean and shining
and in its proper place:

but there was no sign at all of the three little monkeys.

Oh no! The monkeys have gone missing!

Poor Hilda is so upset she can't find her monkeys.

We need to help her and write a missing poster.

Lets look at an example to help us.

A big clear title so people know what to look for.

Extra detail about the missing animal so people know what it looks like.

A picture to help people remember and add to your detail.

What to do if anyone sees your missing animal.

Activity

Now your going to design your own missing poster for the monkeys.

Remember the features from the example to make sure you get all the important information on it.

I have added some example templates you can use to help you but you can poster can be your own design.
