

Friday's writing

If you need to finish your story then do that today.

If your story is finished, create a front and back cover for your story book, including a blurb.

Here is the front and back cover of the Kid Normal book.

Their cover is intended to entice readers through humour. The blurb is important: you want to give enough information to make people want to know more, but not too much that you give the whole story away. Blurbs usually include at least one question.

E.g.

There are!? Oh right okay then.

Will they be able to defeat the evil Dr and save the world?

Here's the link in case you need to watch the video again.

Remember, you can download an audio version of this book for free on the web page with the video.

<https://literacytrust.org.uk/family-zone/9-12/printable-activities-9-12/write-superhero-story-greg-james-and-chris-smith/>

G	Blurb
A	Children (potential readers)
P	To inform what the book is about and persuade people to read it.