

6G Spellings

Thursday 25th September 2020

For today we're going to complete a spelling test. You'll need someone else from your household in order to complete the spelling test. However, if you have nobody to help you, simply try doing it yourself. Please write the full sentences into your book. However, for this week we'll only be marking the spellings and not the punctuation as well.

The drummer kept a decent rhythm.

"I would recommend the pork sandwich," said Miss Baldock.

"Is that really necessary?" questioned Mr Gill.

The soldier was extremely brave.

This resignation was possibly due to his dislike of Henry's foreign policy.

There was, of course, no hindrance to a man having more than one job.

A very select committee was organised to make any decision making easier.

The bad weather could have a disastrous effect on the area's tourism industry.

"Please move to the back of the queue," asked the shop assistant.

"I'm not sure if that information is relevant," stated Miss Simmons.
